Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

Is the virtue of forthrightness disappearing from the United States? Do we, as a people employ, devious and roundabout methods to accomplish results? Are we slipping into the habit of making the ends justify the means? Have we lost the honest talent of speaking our minds on matters that affect public welfare or national well being?

These questions rise to mind when one considers the attitude of Congress, representatives and senators. Here is a great national question pending, of probably more importance than anything which has happened to the people since the founding of the Republic. Our spokesmen, our public servants in Congress, are as a whole, making such exhibition of poltroonery as has rarely been witnessed since Christ was born.

A very large proportion of our representatives, speaking quite frankly are selling their votes to the President for patronage. They are not representing us at all. They are representing themselves first, the New Deal second, and their country last and least.

The game is this: First Congress abdicates and votes into the hands of the nation's chief executive billions of dollars, to meet and overcome a great national depression, in other words an emergency commensurate with and comparable with the emergency of a world war. At least we have the assurance of every cheap demogogue and politician that such is the case. Then second, having turned over to the chief executive a vast authority along with half the gold in the world and all of the credit in the United States, these same demagogues that represent us in Congress proceed to toady and lick the boots of all those designated by President to dispense alms on a scale never before seen in this world in order that they, by judiciously distributing "relief", may gather together a solid minority of voters avid and greedy for the sweet pickings that flow from the public treasury, and thereby perpetuate themselves and the New Deal (not the Democratic Party) in power.

And to accomplish this, the highest authority, the most exalted personage in our land, the President of the United States, declares that owing to the "age" of our Supreme Court members, they must be assisted by six more judges, appointed by himself, conformed by the complacent senate, and seated, actually, to rubber stamp whatever "beneficent" measure our President chooses to give us. At first President Roosevelt gave the age of the Supreme Court justices as a reason for this wholesale rejuvenation of the court. But finally driven from this argument by the statement of his own Attorney General that the Supreme Court was abreast of its calendar, he acknowledges, in one of his later addresses that the reason for this change, is due to the fact that he wishes to do things "now." Where--as last November he stated in effect that the country was and would continue to be prosperous, he suddenly pitches us back into the middle of the depression, with the cry that certain emergency legislation must be passed "now." We are now it seems in the midst of a perpetual emergency.

This is what we mean by devious methods. Why did not he say before election that he proposed to revamp and rejuvenate the Supreme Court? Why when he did finally make his proposal did he declare in effect that the justices were too old and decrepit for their job when as a matter of fact there was never a shred of evidence that this was a fact. Why was not the President of the United States straightforward and frank? What has become of our American contempt for miserable subterfuge and trickery? Will this incident be forgotten in 1940?

Now. it may be as many surmise and suspect, that we are heading toward a dictatorship, but if we are, do we want this kind of a dictatorship? Why not at least choose a dictator who speaks the truth and shames the devil.

COUNTY TAXES

The last installment of county taxes is delinquent after tomorrow. The tax collectors office reports that payments are coming in most satisfactorily and after the last checks come in tomorrow there will be very little delinquency.

PARK AND POOL TO BE READY FOR SUMMER SEASON

The Nevada City Park Commission met at Pioneers Park Sunday morning and decided upon a program to be pursued during the spring and summer months.

Verle Gray, swimming instructor and life guard, has been re-employed for the present year. His wife will have charge of the booth and of renting of towels and lockers.

The commission on examining the bath house found that on the eastern side the redwood siding is turning black and it was decided to paint the house white and the roof green. Mr. Gray will have charge of the work.

Owing to the settling of the "made land" on which the building stands, ti was ascertained that the plumbing and drains are disrupted in several instances, and these will receive a thorough overhauling. Expansion of joints and cracks caused by the settling are to be filled with liquid bitumen.

A committee consisting of Mrs. George Gildersleeve and Mrs. Leland Smith was named to attend to planting. It is expected to plant moisture loving plants to the south of the pool where the ground is kept wet in the summer by springs.

Gray was instructed to take charge of minor repairs and the painting. In order get the planting, some carpenter work, pruning and other details done before the swimming season opens the commission employed Gray six weeks earlier than usual and will expend its own funds for this work.

The city is now engaged in bringing water over from Little Deer Creek, which it is expected ultimately to use for supplying the pool with a constant current. The water will be taken out of the stream first by a long pipe, of which the city has a considerable quantity, and then by ditch to a sump where it will be pumped, it is expected, into filters on higher ground than the pool and, from the filters, flow by gravity into the pool. By filtering the water it is hoped to clear it of sediment so that the life guard will be at all times to see the bottom in the deepest part of the pool. Herb Hallett is in charge of work of diverting water from Little Deer Creek and of putting the pool's drainage system in good order.

SURVEY OF AMERICAN MEDICINE RELEASED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—A survey of the present status of American medical practice, which some might regard as exceedingly frank, has just been released locally by the American Foundation of New York through the University of California Medical School and other sources. The survey was intended to get to the bottom of the problem of making adequate medical care available to the large part of the population that now fails to get it.

All of the information obtained in the survey was gathered and submitted by the doctors themselves, most of them having twenty or more years' evperience. The Foundation merely asked the doctors for a statement of existing facts and from these it made up a report graphically presenting the picture of American medicine as it functions at the present time. No conclusions or recommendations are contained in the report, as it was intended as a plain statement of fact and nothing more.

The University of California Medical School played an important part in both supplying information for the report and is helping to finally complete it. The Medical Advisory Committee which finally passed on the report contains the names of Dr. Langley Porter, dean of the school, and Doctors William J. Kerr and Eugene S. Kilgore of the department of medicine.

Arguments both for and against the establishment of a Department of Public Health in the United States government, with its own cabinet member, and such issues as "Is there too much surgery?," "Is there too much specialization?," and "Is the Family Doctor Passing?," feature the report. Some doctors hold that there are too many poor and too few good specialists, and many hospitals have expensive and unnecessary "frills." One group contends that everyone should be compelled to save some money for medical care.

The Foundation Committee directing the survey contains such personages as Curtis Bok, its chairman; Thomas W. Lamont, Robert A. Millikan, Roscoe Pound, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. F. A .Vanderlip and John G. Winant.

LAVA CAP MEN VOTE TO ACCEPT LEAGUE SCALE

The employees of the Lava Cap Mining Corporation in a secret vote taken Friday on the proposition given below voted 154 approving the agreement and 47 not approving, 3 men not voting.

"I approve of the agreement fixing the present wage scale and working conditions for the period to June 30th, 1938, between the Mine Workers Protective League and the Lava Cap Gold Mining Corp."

"I do not approve of the agreement fixing the present wage scale and working conditions for the period to June 30th, 1938, between the Mine Workers Protective League and the Lava Cap Gold Mining Corp."

A meeting of the men of the Lava Cap was called and the matter of the agreement between the corporation and the Mine Workers Protective League discussed before the vote was taken. The employees were assured by the management that the present wage scale was the maximum possible at the present price of gold, but that if the price of gold advanced a further increase in wages would be considered.

ARMY ENGINEERS IN U. C. COURSES

BERKELEY, April 15.—The success with which Army engineers met the recent flood crisis in the Mississippi Valley may be traced in large part to the training which many of them received as graduate engineering students at the University of California, according to Dr. Charles Derleth, Jr., dean of the College of Engineering.

Graduates of the United States Military Academy at West Point have been sent to the university for graduate instruction in civilian civil engineering since 1926. The university has been chosen by the army command as the western institution best fitted to give this training. Graduates have also been sent to Priceton, Cornell, Massachusetts Institute of Technogoly and Iowa State.

The College of Engineering was asked in 1922 by the Secretary of War to submit a list of subjects which would form a one-year graduate course in civil engineering. In 1926 three graduate army engineers were sent to the university to take such a course at government expense and forty eight others have followed them in the succeeding years. Many of them, after completing the course, have been assigned to duty in the Mississippi Valley and were actively engaged in fighting the recent flood in that section.

The army men receive the degree of Master of Science upon completing the required course. They major in hydraulics and flood control and write their Master's theses in hydraulics. They are picked from the ranking men among the graduates and are sent to the University on June 1 of each year to undergo ten weeks' period of informal review in preparation for the year's work.

Peace Hangs By a Thread

Again last week it was illustrated how a mere gesture, a slight movement or a small word, from one of Europe's dictators, can change the whole complexion of prospects for war r peace.

Hopes are high now for dodging the deluge for another year or two or three. Yet a fortnight ago there were grave fears that the worst was coming to the worst over the Spanish imbroglio. Britain had been "humiliated" by an incident at sea. Mussolini was shouting defiance and threatening to send whole new armies into the Iberian battle. All sides were girding for the plunge. Then suddenly everyone relaxed.

What had happened? Mussolini had abruptly changed his tune. He had agreed to "discuss" with the international nonintervention committee, the recall of all Italian volunteers from Spain. He had merely said "yes" to their request to talk things over. And for the first time since the start of Spain's civil conflict, a chance is seen really to isolate this war-threat breeder that has kept Europe half hysterical for months.

In a world of democracies this could not happen. Democratic governments cannot act on a whim. They are responsible to their people, and public opinion gathers force more slowly, more deliberately. In a world of democracies, peace could not hang by such a slender thread.

But now that the immediate crisis in Europe is relieved news from across the water will be of a more hopeful tone. It will be, that is, until Mussolini "about faces" again, or Hitler rattles a sword, or one of the two stumbles inadvertently and sets off the whole powder keg.—Contributed.

Do We Want Socialism?

And here comes Rexford Guy Tugwell, of all people, with an article in Current History magazine warning American business against one of the trends toward Socialism!

Mr. Tugwell, you remember, was considered America's No. 1 revolutionist before he stepped out of government to go into private business. Evidently a few months of grappling with practical realities have caused him to come around to a different way of looking at things.

In any case, Mr. Tugwell discusses consumer cooperatives, through which people try to save money by retailing goods to themselves, instead of buying at stores. He says we are forcing this form of socialism upon ourselves by legislating the efficiency out of private retailing.

"The consumer cooperative movement is growing", says Mr. Tugwell. "It is being stimulated to a large extent by the very forces that are opposed to it in principle. If legislatures persist in suppressing chain stores, and Congress sticks to the theory of the Robinson- Patman act, the result is apt to be a great growth of consumer cooperatives rather than, as was intended, a renaissance of independent retail merchandising."

Consumer cooperatives would cripple independent as well as all other retail merchandising. And once the distribution end of business was largely socialized, socialism would be well on its way to taking over the whole show. Do we want that, or do we want to keep the American system of private initiative, under democracy?

Mr. Tugwell's words are worth thinking about. If anyone can recognize trends toward Socialism, surely he can. He used to plan them.—Contributed.

Just Wonderin'

I wonder why a silly bat
So fills me with dismay,
And why a little wriggling snake
Disrupts my perfect day;
I wonder my a mooing cow
Gives rise to abject fear;
Now all of these are harmless things—
At least that's what I hear.

I wonder if our fear of harmless things is indicative of mal-adjustment to environment, failure to react with the assurance given by knowledge and an inclination to remain under the dominance of very old and very foolish superstitions. Any way I shall defy the next vow I meet—that is if she is a mooly cow.

I wonder if the state legislators are determined to "pack" the boxing and racing commissions. Are five heads better than three?

I wonder what became of the lady who ran her sewing machine at top speed in order to finish a long seam before the thread gave out.

I wonder where I culled the reactionary idea that under the laws of the land a man's property was his own to have and to hold. Now anybody may walk in upon you, sit down and sit on and on, and all you can do is wait until congress digs up a fundamentnal to fit the case, amends the constitution or serves the Supreme Court with a transfusion of fresh, young blood.

I wonder if this could ever happen here: Picture! Cookie sitting by stove, ice and milk men holding back steps, window washer lolling in living room rocker, various and sundry bill collectors draped about front porch. Curtain!

I wonder which end of a long distance telescope Robert Ingersoll was squinting into when he wrote, "I see a world at peace."

I wonder just how far Tennyson "dipped into the future" before he came upon his "federation of the world." I wish some of our learned prognosticators had been a bit more explicit.

I wonder if this is true: "what we send into the lives of others comes back into our own." If it is, I'll watch my step —tomorrow. —A. MERRIAM CONNER.

LOVE IS NEWS AT NEV. THEATRE, ON MON., TUES.

The romance of a thrilling threesome whose kisses crash the headlines and whose escapades sell extras, with handsome Tyrone Power outromancing his "Lloyds of London" role, lovely Loretta Young bringing her fresh charm to a portrayal that is enchantingly different, and Don Ameche creating a dashing new screen characterization, provides hilarious excitement in the Twentieth Century Fox streamline hit, "Love is News" opening at the Nevada Theatre.

With Loretta in the role of a beautiful heiress heckled and pestered by sensation seeking newspapers, the enjoyable pace is set at once when she vows vengeance against Tyrone Power, ace newshawk who has just tricked her again into the headlines, without however, reckoning with his dynamic, hard-driving managing editor, Don Ameche (radio star of "The First Nighter").

To give newsman Tyrone a dose of his own medicine, Loretta determines to make him a public figure, and not only announces her engagement to him but also states that she has presented him with a million

Beseiged on every hand, Tyrone strives to expose the hoax but his efforts serve only to increase his notority as well as his unpopularity with the managing editor. On a wild chase into the country, both the newshawk and his quarry are arrested for speeding and jailed by county Judge Slim Summerville, an incident which results in some of the most hilarious moments in the film.

Loretta's revenge works itself up to a bewildering and amusing climax in which the tables are suddenly turned and the pair find themselves, as the newspapers had so often repeated, really "that way" about each other.

Slim Summerville, Dudley Digges, Walter Catlett, George Sanders, Jane Darwell, Stepin Fetchit and Pauline Moore are featured in the cast, while Tay Garnett directed.

Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century Fox production chief, selected Earl Carroll and Harold Wilson as associate producers. The screen play by Harry Tugend and Jack Yellen was adapted from the story by William R. Lipman and Frederick Stephani.

SAFETY

SHOULD HAVE FIRST CLAIM ON

Gasoline Taxes

THE PROPOSAL to divert large sums from the State's gasoline tax funds to maintain a few big bridges takes no account of the growing safety needs of California's entire highway system.

In our network of approximately 96,000 miles of roads, the 6 big bridges total about 17 miles.

Since 1926, the State Highway system has been increased from less than 6,600 to over 14,000 miles . . . more than doubling the mileage maintained from funds expended at the discretion of the Highway Department.

Some Vital Needs

Following are some of the vital needs which these funds have been INADEQUATE to meet:

. . . 250 old bridges on State highways are posted UNSAFE for legal loads and need replacement.

. . . 1,000 bridges are too narrow to afford reasonable safety.

. . . Thousands of grade crossings should be rapidly eliminated.

School buses, trucks and automobiles have crashed and many deaths have been caused by these hazards. Yet gasoline taxes would be diverted from these uses to subsidize a few big bridges . . . instead of maintaining them from tolls paid by the users.

Sanctity of a Contract

Owners of the Carquinez and Antioch Bridges oppose their acquisition and ask the State to uphold its ratification of our operating contract which lasts till 1948, WHEN THE PUBLIC WILL GET THE BRIDGES ABSOLUTELY FREE.

Write your representatives at Sacramento to protect the gasoline tax funds, needed for general highway maintenance, from diversion to a few big bridges.

Let California Keep Faith!
